The Cost Was $10,000.

A dispatch from Martinsburg, W. Va., says: The cost to the State of keeping troops in the field at Eagle Station and Benwood during the miners' strike is $10,000, and there is no money to pay the bill. The Legislature at its last session appropriated $15,000 for the guard, but it is found that the appropriation is for encumpment alone, and cannot be used to defray expenses of active service. Governor MacCorkle gave his personal note for $2.500 to pay the troops that were ordered out to Eagle Station, and if he does not do likewise for those ordered to Henwood they will have to wait until after the next meeting of the Legislature in January for their money.

The summer anglers are getting in their best work now in the lower Chesaneake, and hundreds go down daily and take the largest size trout and other fish. Very few spots or hog-fish are caught, and these choice pan fish are likely to be very scarce all the season, and from the regular fish-boats will doubtless easily bring from 5 cents to $1.25 per dozen. A Vision of WONDERLAND!

those mischievous but kindly children The Little Brownies, immortalized in nursery tales, have beer recently reported as taking a tour of the wild and picturesque scenery of America. The idea was long delayed, and undoubtedly came to them through a chance examination of the most wonderful and beautiful publication of the age, the magnificent picto graphic scenic serial, entitled which THE DISPATCH is now distributing among its patrons. It is a sad commentary upon popular taste that Americans know less about the scenery of their own country than of that of European lands, probably because travel in the far West has not been attended with such comforts as journies through the old countries. But no reason is longer available to excuse ignorance of the incomparable, the impressive, the truly marvellous scenery of our wondrously diversified country, because "Glimpses of America" is a photographic album, comprising the grandest pictures of the most sublime objects that the human eye ever beheld.

They are not woodcuts or sketches, but large and perfect photographs of actual scenes, bewilderingly magnificent, imposing sights of the Rocky Mountains, the peaks, canons, waterfalls, valleys, lakes, and cataracts of that great continental range, and of equally wondrous views on the great plains, Pueblo villages, burning deserts, immense forests; marvels of the Yosemite; picturesque, but almost inaccessible regions of the Northwest; of Alaska's glaciers and Indian towns; of the Yellowstone-Park geysers and curiosities: of Superior's sculptured shores, and Wisconsin's romantic dells; of Canada and the cleavages, cascades, whirlpoools, and deep forests of the Northeast; of Eastern mountains, frothy streams, dashing rivers, and great precipices; of dreamy, languorous scenes in the land of the flamingo, where the mockingbird hides in the perfume-laden snow of the orange tree, and the sun kisses the banana into golden

Every section of America is represented in this complete collection of photographs, and the pictures, instead of being imperfectly and clumsily described in brief foot-notes, as in other serials, are incorporated in the text, there being as much space devoted to reading matter in "Glimpses of America" as to illustrations. It is therefore a pictorial history of the charming scenery of our country, the most gorgeous, complete, and eloquent that was ever prepared.

The Cameragraphs!

No one ever before saw such marvellous heliotype jewels as these.

They are specimens of the perfected process of photographing in natural colors-grand, glorious, and beautiful beyond imagination. A series of these marvellous pictographic productions appear in "Glimpses of America," and they are to be seen in no other publication, the cost being too great as yet to admit of common use.
